Good People, Good Deeds

Mr. Li Xiaoming grew up in Hong Kong. He is as ordinary as a person that you see on the street. He is not rich but he likes helping others.

Once he helped a very poor family, who lives on the street every day. Mr. Li lived nearby. Every time he walked by, he donated some money to them. Day by day, they became close to each other. The poor family had a little child, but he couldn't go to kindergarten because they were so poor. Mr. Li gave them more money when he saw the child. One day, as Mr. Li walked by, he saw the child wearing a school uniform. The father said emotionally, 'Mr. Li, I saved the money you gave us and my child can go to school now.' Mr. Li burst into tears with joy. 'Great! I'm very happy to hear that.'

However, the family never saw Mr Li after that time. Two weeks later, they were told that Mr. Li had passed away. He was diagnosed with liver cancer and has been in the hospital since the day he last saw the family.

This story touches many people in Hong Kong.

Mr. Li might not be a famous person, but he did good deeds and sets a good example for us.
